Spotlight – Clemson College of Business

GGC started work on the new Clemson College of Business in July 2018, and we expect to finish pouring out last section of site concrete later this month, in time for the building’s completion this Spring. Needless to say, this project has consumed a significant amount of company resources over the past 2 years – but this beautiful project is sure to be a jewel in our company portfolio between the complicated structure to the very detailed hardscape package. GGC has partnered with our long-term Clemson University client, DPR. The current team of Sr PM Brian Pulley, APM Ian McMillan, HS Director Anthony Ureno, and HS Supt Julian Ureno, Foreman Billy Merck, Crews from Saul Lopez and others have all helped us manage to close the project well. Others that have had their “moment in the sun” on Clemson Business are Josh Mandall, Trevor Garner and Larry Dempsey, as well as Mario Ventura and Brandon McDaniel. The 5-story structure was poured with well over 7,000CY of concrete, 176,000SF of slabs, has cast-in-place walls over 25’ tall, and a total of over 35,000SF of CIP walls across this cascading project built into an existing topography. The site package features over 30,000SF of exterior flatwork, with brick masonry piers, permeable pavers at Sykes Plaza, and a distinctive integral color concrete table-top with decorative saw-cuts performed in a critical one-week shutdown between Summer and Fall Semesters.
