NHA 5&6 Closeout

Wrapping Up...

Bid in 2020, GGC's work pertaining to NHA 5 and 6 buildings is coming to a close. This project was ran by Superintendent Brett Blanton and a very large support crew. NHA 5 and 6 scope included: 50,114 SF of concrete poured from the original bid throughout building 5, building 6, and the admin building. The work included concrete paving, concrete walls, curb, heavy duty paving, house-keeping pads, MEP pads, slab on grade, depressed slabs, slab on metal deck, topping slabs, and stem walls. NHA 5 and 6 are part of a large campus in Huntsville, AL that GGC has continued to work on for Holder Construction, moving on to the next phase project MCA. In the past few years GGC has had the pleasure of bidding and completing data center work for Holder Construction in Huntsville and Charleston, South Carolina. The future looks bright in the data center realm of work and we hope to continue to bid and win these profitable data center jobs.

Linac After Linac...After Linac

Braselton Linac—GC: Turner Construction

Clay Campus Linac—GC: Haskell

CyberKnife Linac—GC: Turner Construction

In the last six months GGC has been awarded (3) linear accelerator (LINAC) projects with Turner Construction and Haskell. The Turner projects are in-town spearheaded by Superintendent Doug Sutton (Braselton, GA and Roswell, GA). The Haskell Linac project is just outside of Jacksonville, Florida with Roger Black running point. If you're wondering what a linear accelerator vault is, here's a quick rundown: A medical linear accelerator (LINAC) is the device most commonly used for external beam radiation treatments for patients with cancer. It delivers high-energy x-rays or electrons to the region of the patient's tumor. These treatments can be designed in such a way that they destroy the cancer cells while sparing the surrounding normal tissue. Some interesting structural facts about GGC's scope: Wall thickness ranges from 3ft–6ft wide at a wall height between 14ft–24 ft tall. Each LINAC has between 40–80 tons of rebar within the walls and lid that cover a room no bigger than 250 square feet.

Pictured left is the completed interior of a linear accelerator vault. The cost of the machine alone ranges from 2.4 Million—2.8 Million dollars. All of GGC's LINAC projects will wrap up by October of 2022.

Hardscape Spotlight

King Memorial

Shown above is the King Memorial project. With a contract amount of $926,000, GGC's hardscape scope on the project included: fire-place installation, trellis construction, pedestal pavers, steel planters, cast-in-place stairs and sidewalks. This project is GGC's second project with Fortune Johnson and is located near Oakland Cemetery. The project is unique in location and access to the courtyards was challenging. GGC is hoping that this project opens the door to much more work with Fortune Johnson.

Lane Park

Pictured is the Lane Park project awarded to GGC by HOAR Construction. With a contract amount of $930,000 the scope included: Integral color sidewalks, brick pavers, and miscellaneous site furnishings. This open-aired retail project in Mountain Brook, Alabama has some of GGC's finest hardscape work in place.

Changes & Growth

As GGC continues to grow we are continuing to move to a more business unit autonomy structure. As announced last month, Luke Gettmann has assumed a leadership role in the Commercial Business Unit. This formation puts a higher degree of responsibility on each business unit leader (Nathan Tucker—Industrial Unit, Anthony Ureno—Hardscape Unit, Brian Pulley —Tilt Unit). Each business unit has a corresponding General Superintendent (Tilt—Jorge Mendiola, Industrial Unit—Brad Ladner, Commercial Unit—Larry Dempsey, Hardscape Unit—Julian Ureno). Each unit has an assigned General Superintendent with all field personnel assigned to each respective unit. The main purpose for this shift is to help GGC maintain a more small company atmosphere while also ensuring the proper resources are in place to meet the current demands of our business.

Another recent change is Paul LeMay's reassignment to Manager of Equipment and Logistics. Along with Paul we added Derreck Bartlett as a full-time driver to help support GGC's needs in this logistical area of the Company. In addition, Jonathan Browning has transitioned to a Preconstruction role as a Senior Project Estimator currently supporting both the Commercial and Industrial Business Units.

Nothing is better than post season baseball. GGC has decided to opt into post season Braves tickets for the second year in a row with our Delta Sky Club tickets. Jacob Puche and Jack Godfrey will tag team the distribution of these tickets. Hopefully the Braves will pull through with another World Series Win! In addition to the post season, GGC has also opted into adding twenty additional games to the 2023 ticket package. Go Braves!
